

THE IRIS BORDER

1958

by EVANS IRIS GARDENS — 6690 Wilson Mills Road, Gates Mills, Ohio

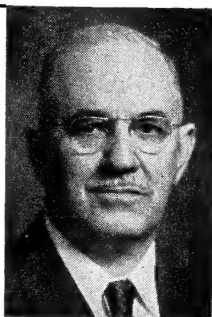

HOME OWNERS DISCOVER IRIS CHARM

"DO-IT-YOURSELF" LANDSCAPE PROGRAM CATCHES ON

Readers of the Iris Border are finding new uses for Iris around their home grounds. Evans Iris Gardens publishes this unique Bulletin to inform home owners of the many ways Iris may be used. As landscape material they offer beautiful flowers in a stunning range of color at a period when there are few other flowers in bloom.

The purpose is to interest people in Iris: (1) as a hardy perennial, (2) as ideal landscape material, (3) as garden subjects, (4) as a hobby or project for study and breeding improvement.

Let's Talk Iris

C. D. Evans

To all you nice people, our customers—we thank you for your orders, your comments and suggestions.

Iris, one of the most beautiful of all flowers, is our hobby. From the "blue flags" of our forefathers to the hybrid Iris of today great progress is readily apparent. Few flowering plants have received so intense and concentrated study by plant breeders, resulting in new forms, gorgeous new color breaks and general improvement.

One hundred years ago Iris plants were usually small with insignificant blossoms, and colors were mostly blue with a few yellow, and off-white. Today, one may choose a clearly defined color or from various combinations and blends ranging from clear white through the full range of rainbow colors to nearly black, with the exception of bright geranium-red. And it is entirely possible that even as this is written some hybridizer may announce a successful cross producing a bright red.

Our lists include a representative selection of Iris that have been proved well adapted to our Ohio climate, and recognized as popular varieties that will grow well for you.

COME AND SEE

No tongue or pen can adequately describe the scintillating beauty of the individual Iris blossoms. The catalog may state the color, but you have to see them in bloom to fully appreciate their loveliness.

You and your friends are most cordially invited to visit our display gardens during the period of bloom and browse as long as you wish. There are about 500 different varieties, mostly in well developed plant groups. The Dwarf Iris start blooming about April 25th and are followed by many of the Intermediate and Table Iris in early May. The Tall Bearded Iris should start blooming the last week of May and continue until about June 15th. Bring your camera.

MASSED COLOR PRODUCES STUNNING EFFECTS

You can paint lovely pictures with Iris and at a cost to suit your pocketbook. The beauty and color contrast of established Iris plants in full bloom is amazing. Once planted, they will grow and increase in your garden, becoming more gorgeous each season. For best results—mass your color by planting groups of one variety together.

Whatever you wish to develop—a simple perennial border, or a complete landscaping of the home grounds,—prepare a plan. Arrange your material as you expect it to appear when full grown. Do not crowd. Your plants need room to breathe. Figure on groups of three or six rhizomes of each variety spaced eight to twelve inches apart and arranged in the form of triangles, and be sure they all point in the same direction. In this way you avoid open spaces in your color pattern and each group becomes a unit of design.

By the second year you should have abundant color in each unit. Mix your colors well and be sure to have plenty of cream, yellow, pink and light blends to warm up your picture. Now add a few white, blue, red and brown for desirable contrasts and there you have it. Always remember, the ratio of the lighter colors should be about three to one of the darker shades for pleasing results.

Oriental poppies, lupines, peonies, hemerocallis, veronica and many other perennials may be effectively combined with Iris to provide variations of form. Sometimes an edging border of pansies or alyssum proves very effective.

LOCATION OF GARDENS

Evans Iris Gardens are located in Mayfield Village which is about 15 miles east of Cleveland's Public Square. From there follow U. S. Route 322 (Mayfield Road) to State Route 91 (SOM Center Road). Go north about 1¼ miles to Wilson Mills Road, then east 150 yards.

As Mr. Evans lives some 10 miles from the gardens, he may not always be around so it might be well to telephone or write so he can meet you. His home telephone is listed under Cleveland and is REdwood 1-2335. During blooming time for Tall Bearded Iris he will be at the gardens every day from 9 A.M. to 6 P.M. At other times his schedule will be daily except Sundays from 1:00 P.M. until 6:00 P.M.

TO HELP YOU SELECT GOOD IRIS

AWARDS

In addition to our descriptions and mention in popularity polls notations of special awards may help you in your selection.

These awards are based on reports from the judges of the American Iris Society and are made as follows:

Dykes Medal (DM) is the highest award and only one may be made each year.

Award of Merit (AM) only twelve are made each year.

Honorable Mention (HM) no limit on number of awards except that an Iris must receive votes from twelve judges to qualify.

POPULARITY POLLS

Each year, beginning with 1940 the American Iris Society has published a symposium listing the 100 most popular Iris for that year. Each member of the Society (about 5000) sends in a list of the twenty-five Iris they liked best that year. The replies, from all parts of the United States, are tabulated and the 100 receiving the most votes make up the Popularity Poll for that year.

Under the heading "Popular Iris" we list over one hundred Iris that have won a place in six or more "Polls". These are outstanding, have stood the test of time, and will grow well anywhere.

EARLY ORDERS

As all orders are filled in rotation the earlier orders receive our first attention. Some varieties, including some of the newer ones, are in limited supply and may be sold out early in the season. IT PAYS TO ORDER EARLY.

HARDINESS IMPORTANT

Experts indicate that hardiness is most important when buying new plants for your garden, and we agree. The plants we offer have been subjected to our strenuous and variable Ohio weather proving their hardiness and "growability". Once planted, they will continue to grow and increase in your garden, becoming more gorgeous each season.

107 POPULAR IRIS

Every one of these beautiful Iris have won a place in six or more annual Popularity Polls of the American Iris Society. Of these proven favorites Amigo, Great Lakes, Sable and Wabash have placed in all eighteen polls. All have won awards. As many Iris have been introduced since 1940 the figure shown after the name only indicates the number of polls in which it has been mentioned since it became eligible. For example—Katherine Fay 9—became eligible in 1945 and has been chosen nine times out of a possible thirteen.

Throughout this catalog all varieties individually priced from $.40 to $2.00 may be bought in groups of three for 2½ times the "one" price, and such purchases may be included in total to qualify for our special gift allowances.

TALL BEARDED IRIS

Our selection of Tall Bearded Iris is divided into three parts:

- 1 Popular Iris,
- 2 Modern Tall Bearded Iris,
- 3 Older Favorites.

All produce bloom stalks above 28" in height.

For fine Iris at reasonable prices we recommend a selection from our "Popular Iris" lists that are color grouped for your convenience (see opposite page).

For the collector and advanced grower many of the newer Iris are included in our "Modern" list.

Other collectors and hybridizers may find scarce old diploids and other "oldies" in the "Older Favorites" list.

WHAT IS A RHIZOME?

A rhizome is not a root, but a sort of fleshy stem or root-stock that develops at ground level and sends roots down into the soil and grows an upright fan of leaves at one end.

Rhizomes vary in size, depending some on parentage and other growth factors. Size of a rhizome is no guarantee of outstanding stamina or ability to grow into a satisfactory plant. We could produce larger rhizomes by heavy feeding but the result might also develop a rhizome less firm and more susceptible to disease and rot.

OLDER FAVORITES

Aside from that nostalgic feeling that comes from recognizing older Iris names, we have found many persons interested in collecting some of these "Older Favorites."

Some hybridizers have discovered these older Iris as valuable for back-crossing to restore characteristics lost earlier in their breeding program. Where known, diploids are marked with an asterisk (*), and tetraploids with ('3').

While we intend to continue stocking these older varieties, the quantity of any one variety will be limited.

NO DIGGING OF FLOWERING PLANTS

As many have suggested, we could sell lots more Iris if we only would dig plants while in bloom. Like most Iris growers and plant specialists we only dig and deliver plants at the proper dormant or resting period. We start digging about one month after the blooming period, weather permitting.

DWARF BEARDED IRIS

These little aristocrats bloom with the earliest spring flowers. They may be used as edging for your perennial border, or combine well with primroses and daffodils. They are also ideal subjects for the rockery.

We have divided our list into two groups: True Dwarf Iris—which includes only those that meet the strict standards of the Dwarf Iris Society, and—Other Dwarf Iris—which includes all other low growing Iris fifteen inches high or less.
